

ABOUT THE IVY

Located on Robertson Boulevard in Los Angeles, The Ivy is famous for its celebrity sightings and paparazzi presence. Known for its nouvelle American cuisine, the restaurant features charming country-cottage decor with a flowery outdoor terrace, framed by ivy and surrounded by a signature white picket fence.

Its cozy interior boasts rustic antiques, vibrant floral arrangements, and folksy touches, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. The menu highlights American cuisine with a strong emphasis on Louisiana/Cajun specialties, complemented by an array of delightful desserts.

BACKGROUND

The Ivy on Robertson Boulevard is surrounded by boutiques, paparazzi capturing shots for magazines like Us Weekly and In Touch, and throngs of tourists. The restaurant is famously described as "a celebrity beehive," with luxury cars like Hummers and Jaguars frequently pulling up to drop off patrons eager to be seen dining.

